

What is the sociocracy method suitable for?

In practice, almost all decision-making topics at school are suitable for sociocratic decisions because if everyone has an opinion on a topic you can also decide on it sociocratically.

Here, we include an overview of topics and issues you can best use the sociocratic method for in groups of students and adults.

With students	With adults
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Parliamentary work - resolutions for the school</li> <li>• Student representation</li> <li>• Where are we going on our class trip?</li> <li>• Who will be the group spokesperson?</li> <li>• What topic do we want to work on next?</li> <li>• Was there a problem? How do we want to deal with it better in the future?</li> <li>• Where do we want to sit? Making a seating plan for the group</li> <li>• We are going on an outing. Where do you want to go?</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Are we doing a project week?</li> <li>• Should there be a staff field trip?</li> <li>• What is the school's theme for the year?</li> <li>• Should there be an educational day?</li> <li>• All decisions in the school conference that originate from the teaching staff</li> </ul>

These resources have been created within the Erasmus+ project LabSchoolsEurope: Participatory Research for Democratic Education. You are welcome to use, adapt and transform these materials and share them using the same license as the original Creative Commons License CC-BY-SA 4.0.

With the support of the Erasmus+ Programme of the European Union

The creation of these resources has been (partially) funded by the ERASMUS+ grant program of the European Union under grant no. 2019-1-DE01-KA203-005003.

Neither the European Commission nor the project's national funding agency, the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) are responsible for the content or liable for any losses or damage resulting of the use of these resources.